Hi Felicity,

Links abound:

Here is the new boss, just like the old boss. Most people conflate the bureaucracy with the political party governance. They are not the same and forgetting that allows the bureaucrats to get away with almost anything.

Must-watch movie of the twentieth century.

[VCONgoer and proprietor of The Hackery Jax Coldwolf has told me a lot about this film. He has a high-quality laserdisc transfer of the film on his YouTube channel (uploaded with Mike Jittlov's blessing) at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=j5a_00YVVkQ.]

“At least two of Silicon Valley’s tech billionaires are pouring money into efforts to break humans out of the simulation that they believe that it is living in, according to a new report.”

I for one would rather continue as Pac-Man instead of having to deal with a more complex universe. This strikes me as the same thing as “intelligent design,” moving the problem somewhere else without solving anything in the process. It does vindicate Einstein on the subject of human stupidity.

[I'd be happy to escape this reality as long as the next one is better. I'm no good at this reality. I don't know was what the point of creating me to be so broken and nonfunctional.

[If I have to continue as Pac-Man, give me a power pellet.]

“Solving the conundrum of oppositional binaries: there are apparently humans who have a voiced narrative at all times in their heads. There are also humans who do not. There are humans that read text and their imagination creates a film for them. There are also humans who do not.³ There are humans who think in terms of ‘tiered’ filters and levels of abstractions. There are also humans who do not. There are humans who can separate emotional and intellectual engagement. There are also humans who do not. (And so on and so forth). Stop thinking in binary categories, it’s a spectrum.” Shamelessly stolen from Catherine Taylor (Catalina Diamond).⁴

[It seems like she listed a series of binaries and then said not to believe in binaries, but then I have a hard time understanding her posts. Ideas don’t seem to connect to each other, resulting in de facto word salads. That’s too bad because whatever backstory she’s describing sounds really interesting.]

Nasim explains why Trump will be POTUS as the idiots cry about it. The unknown is always scary but the past should have shown you why Clinton was the greater of two ridiculous evils.

[Still not buying it. Clinton was a pro-corporate centrist sell-out, but Trump's worse. If the last election brings about the death of neoliberalism and the return of populist progressivism, then some good will have come from it, but that doesn't let Trump or the Republicans off the hook.]

I have sensed the hidden hand of Eris moving in mysterious ways all through the meltdown of both political establishments along with their “fake news” media croneys. Given the mainstream media’s nasty habit of generating a bit of fakery and spin in every story the last thing they should have done is to actively start people looking for fakes. The embarrassing tales of weapons of mass destruction should have been allowed to disappear into the mists without starting folk thinking about “fake news.”

[Fox News has been broadcasting unapologetically fake news for 20 years; it’s funny how it’s only now that folk are thinking about “fake news”—and still not naming Rupert Murdoch and Roger Ailes.⁴⁹]

Carlyle in his analysis of the Terror of the French Revolution pointed out that most who were guillotined were the media spin doctors who had incited the revolt. Covering that up means it may be repeated and seem like a new idea to populists.

33C³⁰ videos are up on YouTube. One of the best is the Canadian who did a reverse engineering of cable TV boxes. The punch line at the end is priceless. I don’t recommend the use of his techniques by anyone who isn’t sure of how to handle dangerous chemistry as a hobby.

All in all a most interesting year ending for all concerned. Wishing you all have a great 2017 ahead.

Back in the saddle again!

I haven't had the chance to really get into LOC-writing again thanks to under-going major oral surgery on the morning of January 25th, but it's been ten days now and I really am feeling much better, so here goes.

[Glad you're feeling better!]

As you probably already know, I am one of the three 2017 TAFF (Trans-Atlantic Fan Fund) candidates for making the trip over to Europe for the 75th World SF Convention in Helsinki, Finland. I have been writing about this in my small personalzine Askew. For your readers who are not on my mailing list, they can go to <http://www.taff.org.uk> for more information and the 2017 full TAFF ballot. Voting ends on March 4th, 2017.

End promotional paragraph.

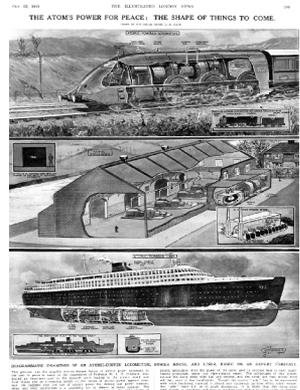

Lloyd Penney's comments about the Steampunk events and shows he and Yvonne attend reminds me that Valerie and I have been checking into which Steampunk events are going on in England and Europe in the mid-July to late-August time frame. There are actually a handful going on then, such as Airship Northstar on July 7th–9th 2017 in Berwick-upon-Tweed, Northumberland, England; Boconnoc Steam Fair, July 28th–30th 2017, Cornwall, England; The Surrey Steampunk Convivial X, July 29th–30th 2017 in New Malden, England; and The Cromford Steam Rally, August 5th–6th 2017 in Tansley, England. Apparently the 44th French National Science Fiction Convention is to be held in late August this year, but we will probably be back home the week before that occurs. Oh, well. It certainly looks like we will be busy—should I win the 2017 TAFF race.

Since I mentioned Lloyd's LOC, I have to say reading letters written in October and November of 2016 in an issue dated August of 2016, that is definite proof that fans are experts at time-binding. What a handy trick to have!

[Getting behind schedule on the zine, but I like your explanation better. ☺]

Genre-related obituaries are getting longer every month. I really enjoyed Fire-fly, and thought that Ron Glass (1945–2016) did a wonderful job as Book in that series. He will be missed.

Taral Wayne's article about The Enchanted Duplicator was well-done, and even though I have known much of this information for many years, it is good to reprint and remind younger fans of the rich heritage fandom has. Harry Warner, Jr.'s book A Wealth of Fable is appropriately titled. Maybe I'm funny this way, but I believe it is A Good Thing to know the history of one's chosen hobby interest, especially when a person is involved with it for a good amount of time (44 years now, in my case) and you have met some of these legendary personages. Thanks for the history lesson, Taral. It is greatly appreciated.

And I think that shall do it today. Thank you, Felicity, for sending the fanzine—just received in yesterday’s mail—and I look forward to the next one.

Dear BCSFen:

Thank you all for issue 519 of BCSFAzine, and sorry this has taken as long as it has. I’ll make it quick.

Looks like Dave Haren is predicting a collapse of the world’s banking system. The prediction has been made many times before, but the last few times, it’s come pretty close. Watch it, Dave, you might be right. Cue up REM’s pertinent song...“It’s the end of the world as we know it...” As far as I am concerned, I am on the right side of the border, and I am enjoying the popcorn, watching the freak show coming out of Washington. (As I write this, I have most of a pot of coffee in me. Perkyperkyperky.)

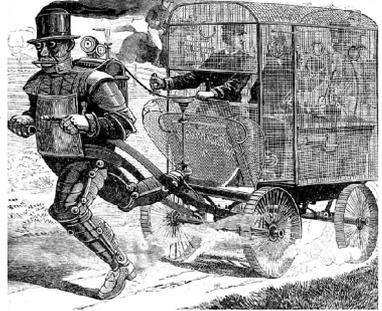

My LOC...we did very well at the Bovaird House craft show in Brampton, and poorly at Genrecon in Guelph earlier this month. I see a trend happening. We may have a chance at a hotel flea market at the beginning of March, and we are having a little difficulty getting into Anime North in May. To be honest, I see the end of our little venture in sight, as our sales continue to be poor, and we don’t even make back the cost of our table.

Far, far, far too many obituaries. Hey, all you people who make up our fandom in all its facets, stop dying! It’s too depressing.

Taral’s essay on Ron Kasman’s book reminds me that you may have heard that Taral had suffered a stroke. It was a minor one, one that affected his speech, but I spoke to him the evening of February 19, and he is slowly but surely recovering. He should be banging away at the keyboard in no time.

[Get well soon, Taral.]

I must completely agree with Taral on his remarks on The Enchanted Duplicator, and on the spirit of Jophan. I have the 1983 issue by Willis and White with illustrations by Dan Steffan, and its sequel, published by Geri Sullivan in 1991, with illustrations by the late Stu Shiffman. The sequel is titled Beyond the Enchanted Duplicator...to the Enchanted Convention. It does make me wonder if there needs to be another sequel, with The Enchanted Website somewhere in the title. There is also various editions of The Neo-Fan’s Guide to Science Fiction Fandom...that could use another revision.

As with most people, we are recovering from colds, bronchitis, and other assorted maladies. The job search continues onwards, yadda yadda yadda. I want to write something else, but no employers are yet cooperating with me. That must change, and soon. And even though money is tight, thrifty Yvonne is already putting money aside for our return trip to Great Britain, bless her heart. Off this goes to your e-mail address, and I shall shut it down right now. See you the next time.

Yours,
Lloyd Penney

News-Like Matter

Notes from August 2016 BCSFA Meeting

In attendance were Barb Dryer (secretary), Kathleen Moore (treasurer), Ray Seredin (host), Felicity Walker (editor), Michael “Fruvous” Bertrand, Joe Devoy, William Graham, Stewart Smyth, and Teresa “T-Cat” Spanics.

Kathleen brought JRR Tolkien’s The Silmarillion to lend to Stew to show why it can’t be made into a movie (even though it is). “Not that that stops Hollywood,” said someone (Joe?). “They’re making Emoji, the movie.⁵¹ They made *Angry Birds*⁵²...*Battleship*⁵³...” Kathleen added “Which flopped,” and I said “Or sank.” Stew (translated by Joe because I mis-heard) said “The movie should have ended by pulling out to reveal two kids playing Battleship in 1965.”

Barb said that during the opening ceremonies to the Olympics someone had a Star-Wars-themed cell phone cover that looked like a Stormtrooper.

I was sad that wrestlers my age are starting to die now,⁵⁴ which means pretty soon wrestlers younger than me will start dying. Stew replied that there are people who want the Doctor⁵⁵ to be older than them. I found this understandable. Fru explained “Human nature expects authority figures to be older and elders to be authorities.”

Following my suggestion from last time, Kathleen gave Fruvous some VCON postcards to hand out or leave at Vancouver Film School.

Stew said that Disney is planning to make A Wrinkle in Time.⁵⁶ Oprah Winfrey to play Mrs. Whatsit.

I said I wanted to read Foundation’s Friends,⁵⁷ an anthology of short stories set in the Foundation universe. (I’d recently re-read the original Foundation series.)

51 The Emoji Movie (2017).

52 (2016).

53 (2012).

54 Wrestlers and comedians tend to die young.

55 It sounded like he meant they want Doctor Who to be older than them and not their family physician to be older than them, though I’ve heard of that too.

56 (1963).

57 (1989). I found a copy at White Dwarf Books!—Future Felicity

Someone (Fruvous?) said that the word “Rigel” sounds like someone couldn’t decide between “Roger” and “Nigel.”

Someone asked “How did they come up with the name ‘Sad Puppies?’” No one knew. “That’s a damn good question,” said Fruvous.⁵⁸

Fru wondered “Is Angelina Jolie dead?” He kept seeing stories about it. William looked it up on his phone. The answer was no. It’s a hoax.

On the way to the meeting I’d bought Grape-Crush-flavoured Hubba Bubba bubble gum at the gas station, and it tasted exactly like I remember it tasting in junior high school! I offered everyone a piece.

VCON to Have Breakout Year in 2017

WCSFA Says: We're Doing All the Things!

The West Coast Science Fiction Association (WCSFA) announced today that 2017 would be a “breakout year” for VCON—that is, they will be breaking out individual aspects of their annual three-day event into several, smaller, tightly-focused events scheduled throughout the year.

VCON, the signature event for WCSFA, is a long-established general SF convention lasting three days but “Three days a year isn’t enough!” according to Chris Sturges, WCSFA president. “We have many more ideas and plans than we can fit in, we need more time! We tried the time travel convention (VCON 40), but that didn’t work.”

With that in mind, WCSFA is announcing a series of events in 2017, to allow more people to attend VCON-related events, and to bring the ideas and strengths of our volunteers to the forefront. So far we are planning:

VCON Relaxicon 41½—We’re scaling back the traditional VCON just a bit, focussing more on people getting together with people. We want to make sure people have time to relax and enjoy the community that we’ve all worked to build. We can confirm that this event is a go and will be held 28–29 October 2017 at the Vancouver Guildford Sheraton Hotel.

72 Episode “Balance of Terror” (15 December 1966).

Nothing But Games—A two-day event featuring tabletop and board games, console gaming, stand-up arcade games, a Magic tournament, head-to-head Artemis bridges, and much more.

All the Art—A high-profile art show featuring the best artists from our art show and invited guests, celebrating Science Fiction and fantasy artwork of all mediums.

We have many more events on our list, but we need your help! If you have an idea for an event or would like to help with one of the planned events, please contact the WCSFA Secretary at secretary@wcsfa.org.

Rx Comics Shop Closed (in Vancouver)

From <http://www.rxcomics.com/20170103-store-closing>:

“Store closing!

“Submitted by Aaron on 3 January 2017:

Rx Comics will be closing its doors permanently at the end of January. There are many factors that have led to this decision, but mostly it comes down to simple economics. We just can’t afford to keep the store open anymore.

“We would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to all of our loyal customers who have made the last 14 years possible. [...]

“We do apologize for the short notice, and hope that the other stores around town will be able to help you get your weekly fix of new stuff.

“If you are wondering what will become of Rx, don’t worry, you will still be able to find us on eBay <http://stores.ebay.ca/RxComics> and at local conventions. [...]

“If you currently have a subscription with us we will hold on to your stuff until the end of the month [...] If you don’t think you will be able to make it in before then, but would still like to get your comics, you can call or message us so we can make other arrangements. [...] We hope that the new year will bring positive changes for all of us.”

New Fiction Fanzine: ‘Eldritch Science’

Eldritch Science is the new fanzine from the National Fantasy Fan Federation. Eldritch Science will publish art, poetry, and fiction including science fiction, swords and sorcery, supernatural, occult, and horror. Fiction contributions must be a minimum of 7500 words. We do not pay. You will retain all rights except our right to republish our zine in whatever formats are currently appropriate. We accept lengths up to complete novels. We do not accept material using the intellectual property of others. The great detective and his assistant are appropriate; Holmes and Watson are not. Material with a major erotic component should seek alternative markets. Editorial standards are high. In its prior incarnation under my editorship, Eldritch Science lost multiple authors to major SF publishing houses. Send submissions electronically (.RTF is preferred for prose) to the Eldritch Science Editor, George Phillies, phillies@4liberty.net.

Richard Hatch (1945–2017)

Richard Hatch: actor, died 7 February, aged 71. Genre appearances include The Sixth Sense (one episode, 1972), Prisoners of the Lost Universe (1983), InAlienable (2008), Season of Darkness (2012), and its higher-budget remake Asylum of Darkness (2017). Most famous for playing Captain Apollo in the original Battlestar Galactica (1978–9), which he campaigned to bring back (writing and directing a 1999 short, Battlestar Galactica: The Second Coming, and co-writing several novels set in that universe with Brad Linaweaver); his contribution was rewarded with a recurring role in the show’s reboot (2005–9, 22 episodes).

Open Volunteer Positions at the West Coast Science Fiction Association

WCSFA is seeking volunteers to fill open appointment positions.

Help WCSFA “do all the things”!

Are you a science fiction, fantasy or games enthusiast? (Of course, you are!)

Do you have “mad skilz” and a desire to use them for goodness and light? (Who doesn’t?!)

The board of directors for the West Coast Science Fiction Association (WCSFA) is looking to fill several year-round appointed volunteer positions at the top level of our organization with individuals interested in jumping in to help us bring exciting events to the fan community throughout 2017.

If it sounds like we might be talking to you (and we are!) take a look at the available positions and if you can see yourself filling any of them. Follow the links to get the full details and information on how to let us know you’re interested in helping out.

Positions to be Filled Immediately:

- Volunteer Coordinator
- Social Media Coordinator
- Marketing Coordinator
- Sponsorship Coordinator
- Youth Committee Chair

Other Available Positions:

- Fundraising Coordinator
- Campus Committee Chair
- Website Coordinator

We thank you for your time, attention and potential future involvement.

Strange Fictions Press Launches New Sci-Fi and Fantasy Zine

Science fiction and fantasy book imprint Strange Fictions Press is delighted to announce the official launch of their new webzine, Strange Fictions SciFi & Fantasy Zine. Strange Fictions Zine focuses on publishing speculative short fiction, nonfiction, art, and poetry twice a week for genre fans worldwide.

Strange Fictions is the latest project from the editors of The Battered Suitcase, launched in 2008. The editors add: “Working with a broad range of authors is just too addictive, and it’s exciting to be back to publishing short fiction again. We really missed the ability to reach new readers on a frequent basis.”

Vagabondage Press is not new to genre fiction, having previously launched their horror and dark fiction imprint, Dark Alley Press. Their roots are truly in genre fiction; raised on the classic pulp sci-fi magazines, and the company found itself gravitating more frequently to genre books—science fiction, fantasy, and horror. Adding an online periodical seemed like a natural way to connect with other fans.

Strange Fictions SciFi & Fantasy Zine officially launches on Feb. 28 with “This Chicken Outfit,” by Pushcart nominated author, A.L. Sirois. Sirois’ short stories have appeared in Thema, Amazing Stories, and Isaac Asimov’s Science Fiction Magazine. He has also contributed comic art for DC, Marvel, and Charlton.

New stories, poems, and essays will appear every Tuesday and Friday. Subscribers can sign up for email notifications whenever a new story is posted.

Strange Fictions SF&F Zine is open to submissions from both new and experienced genre writers, and details can be found at the website.

About Vagabondage Press LLC: Established in 2008, Vagabondage Press was established with the launch of The Battered Suitcase, providing a platform for intelligent, imaginative fiction, nonfiction, and poetry from a wide range of indie authors, artists, and musicians. In 2011, Battered Suitcase Press began publishing a variety of novels focusing on diversity. In 2013, Dark Alley Press was initiated, focusing on horror and dark fiction, along with the quarterly publication of the Ink Stains Anthology series.

USA Border Demands Social Media Passwords Etc.

Quote copied from Olivia Solon's article:

“US Border Agents Could Make Refugees and Visa Holders Give Social Media Logins

“Proposed security measure would force immigrants and refugees referenced in Trump’s travel ban to hand over social media details as part of a security check.”

I imagine they could also demand your passwords (dear readers). Maybe the border guard suspects you might be from a Muslim country or wants to stalk you.

Quote below copied from Violet Blue's article:

“The Border Patrol Can Take Your Password. Now What?

“...While traveling inside the US border, it’s important to know that the TSA isn’t supposed to confiscate laptops, search digital devices or demand passwords...”

“But Border Patrol can. That’s because it exists in a gray area...they’ve been doing it for years.

“If you’ve been following the news, you’ve probably noticed that it’s only getting worse when it comes to demanding passwords and searching people’s electronic devices...”

“But if they ask and you refuse to give them your password or pretend you don’t know it, they will make life very difficult for you. They’ll detain and interrogate you, handcuff you while demanding your password, confiscate your devices for days (or longer) and possibly refuse you entry into the US. Increasingly, border enforcement is copying the contents of devices and keeping them, though CBP isn’t supposed to keep that data longer than a week...”

“...According to NextGov, data in the system can be kept for upward of 75 years...”

“...Border agents have been caught condoning, aiding and covering up the wrongdoings of managers for all manner of bad behavior, including harassment.”

Below adapted/copied from Brett White's post:

“Comic book writer Tom Taylor has announced that he will not attend Emerald City Comicon due to concerns about being able to enter USA safely from his native Australia. Taylor says he has also turned down all other signing events in the USA for the rest of the year.

“Tom writes ‘...There have been reports of interrogation, phone data downloads, requests for social media accounts, returns and five-year travel bans and everyone from children to the elderly being detained. All of this has many people I’ve spoken to reconsidering or cancelling their US travel plans.’

“Taylor says he has also turned down all other signing events and conventions in the United States for the rest of the year.

“Last week, news of Australian children’s author Mem Fox’s detainment by border guards made headlines. ‘I have never in my life been spoken to with such insolence, treated with such disdain, with so many insults and with so much gratuitous impoliteness,’ Fox told The Guardian.”

Rondo Hatton Award Time!

Hello, Monster Kids! It's that time of year again—the 15th annual Rondo Hatton Classic Horror Awards!

<https://www.rondoaward.com/>

You can vote for 2016's best horror movies, TV, DVD, books and more. As they say on their website, "Since 2002, the Rondos have been fandom's only classic horror awards—decided by fans, for fans. Every nominee below is being recognized for significant work or achievement in the year 2016. So add your voice and help make a difference."

Anyone can vote. Last year 3100 did, from as far away as Colombia and Russia. So join in the fun & add your voice to horror fandom!

(Oh and if you're curious, Rondo Hatton was the giant B-movie actor in films like Jungle Captive and House of Horrors. His lovely mug is the face on the prize!)

Excess Resolutions for 2016, #4.5: Poetry, The Inescapability Thereof

Kathleen Moore

Hi, all. I'm doing it again...and again...

July: Perspectives

Between the alfalfa
And the sweetclover,
Between the lindens
And the cherry laurel,
The bees, it seems,
Are content.

Between the roses

And the dandelions,
Between the buttercups
And the fireweed,
Between the lupines
And the lavender,
The bees, it seems,
Are really quite content.

©2012 Denny E. Marshall

Between the blackberries
And the butterfly bush,
Between the Japanese knotweed
And the goldenrod,
Between the policeman's helmet
And the purple loosestrife,
Between the Scotch broom
And the thistles,
The bees, it seems,
Are very content indeed.

Why, then, are the beekeepers—not?

(I would have cited “ceanothus” at line 3—it fits on shape and sound and sense—but then everyone would have had to look it up.)

Seven Science Fiction Haiku

Denny E. Marshall

universe one of many bubbles

two moons in the sky didn't know about present or the aliens

duel exhaust trails in sky ten meters apart between wormhole forms

as shot from cannon hoping you don't miss target and land on planet

aliens shun earth
after years of space missions work on rat problem

planet has no sun powered by batteries

as baby is born father turns and walks away
flying saucer fades
